Income Support

What is Income Support?

Income Support is a social security benefit to help people who do not have enough money to live on.

Income Support is made up of

- money for you
- money for your partner, if you have one
- extra money for people if their expenses are higher than others, for example, disabled people
- money for certain housing costs that are not covered by Housing Benefit.

We use partner to mean

- a person you are married to, or a person you live with as if you are married to them, or
- a civil partner, or a person you live with as if you are civil partners.

The amount you can get depends on

- how much the law says you need to live on, and
- how much money you have coming in each week from things like other social security benefits and part-time work.

Savings of more than £6,000 will affect the amount of Income Support that you can get.

You will not be able to get Income Support if your savings are more than £16,000.

If you live in a care home

Savings of more than £10,000 will affect the amount of Income Support that you can get if you live on a permanent basis in a care home. You will not be able to get Income Support if your savings are more than £16,000.

Who can get Income Support?

Income Support is for people who don't have to sign on as unemployed.

This could be if you're:

- a lone parent,
- a carer,
- sick and receiving SSP,
- on parental or paternity leave, or
- pregnant.

Income Support is for people who:

- are between age 16 and the age they can get Pension Credit and
- have a low income and
- work less than 16 hours a week (or a partner working less than 24 hours a week) and
- are not in full-time study (but there are some exceptions) and
- do not get Jobseeker's Allowance or Employment and Support Allowance and
- do not have savings above £16,000 and
- live in Great Britain.

We will take your earnings into account when we work out your benefit, although there are some earnings we can ignore.

If you or your partner are working more hours than mentioned above, you may still be able to get Income Support if, for example, the person who works

- is caring for another person
- is a childminder at home
- is a part-time firefighter
- is a member of a territorial or reserve force.

If you are separated, we only take your circumstances into account and only count the hours you work.

If you think you will not be able to get Income Support because of the hours you or your partner work, you may be able to get Working Tax Credit.

For more information contact the Working Tax Credit Helpline on 0345 300 3900. Welsh speakers can phone 0300 200 1900.

If you or your partner have reached the qualifying age, you may be entitled to Pension Credit. The minimum age you can get Pension Credit is rising in stages, linked to the changes to women's State Pension age.

For more information visit www.direct.gov.uk/statepension

To apply for Pension Credit phone The Pension Service on 0800 99 1234.

You can only claim Income Support for yourself and your partner.

More about claiming

Who should claim – you or your partner?

If you have a partner and both of you might be entitled to Income Support, you can decide which one of you makes the claim.

If you want more information to help you decide who should make the claim, get in touch with your local office.

Looking after a sick or disabled person

You may be able to get extra Income Support if you or your partner are getting Carer's Allowance because you are looking after a sick or disabled person. This extra amount of Income Support is called a Carer Premium.

To claim Carer's Allowance, fill in the claim form DS700. You can get this form from Jobcentre Plus. You can also apply online or download a form at www.direct.gov.uk/carers-ds7001

If you have a mortgage or home loan

You may be able to get extra Income Support for the interest on your mortgage or home loan. You can find out more about this in information booklet IS8 Home Owners – help with housing costs. You can get this leaflet from Jobcentre Plus.

More about Income Support

How Income Support is worked out

Income Support is the difference between

- the amount the law says you need to live on, and
- the money you already have coming in.

The amount the law says you need to live on is made up of Allowances – for day-to-day living expenses.

Premiums – for expenses that are likely to be higher than normal.

Housing costs – but only for mortgage interest and certain other housing costs that Housing Benefit does not cover.

Allowances and Premiums

Allowances

are the main part of Income Support. They are intended to cover normal day-to-day living expenses.

Premiums

are extra amounts of Income Support for people who have special needs. They are paid as well as all the Allowances.

If you qualify for more than one Premium, you will normally only get the Premium that gives you the most money.

For more information about Allowances, premiums and the rates we use, please ask for our leaflet Benefit and Pension rates. This is available from Jobcentre Plus. You can also view the benefit rates by visiting the DWP website.

Money coming in

By money coming in we mean things like

- earnings after tax, National Insurance (NI) contributions and half of any money paid to a pension scheme have been taken off
- social security benefits
- Working Tax Credit and Child Tax Credit
- savings over £6,000
- savings over £10,000 if you live in a care home permanently
- other money, for example, money from boarders and lodgers.

Money that is not counted

Not all of the money you have coming in is counted, for example, we do not count

- the first £5 of your earnings, if you do not have a partner
- the first £10 of any earnings or joint earnings, if you have a partner
- the first £20 of your earnings
 - if you are a lone parent.

We use lone parent to mean a person who does not live with a partner and has at least one child under 19, as long as Child Benefit is still in payment for that child, or

- if you get the Disability Premium
- child maintenance payments
- savings of £6,000 or less. But if you have savings between £6,000.01 and £16,000, a deduction of £1 a week is made from your benefit for every £250, or part of £250, above £6,000
- if you live in a care home on a permanent basis, savings of £10,000 or less. But if you have savings between £10,000.01 and £16,000, a deduction of £1 a week is made from your benefit for every £250, or part of £250, above £10,000.

Some other money may not be counted.

Jobcentre Plus will be able to give you more information about this.

Council Tax Benefit

Most householders aged 18 or over have to pay council tax to their local council. You may be able to get some help with paying your council tax. You can find out more about this in the Notes about Housing Benefit and Council Tax Benefit that came with the claim form.

Housing Benefit

You may be able to get some help with paying for the place where you live. This help is called Housing Benefit. You can find out more about this in the Notes about Housing Benefit and Council Tax Benefit that came with the claim form.

Child Tax Credit

Child Tax Credit is a payment to support families with children. You may be able to get it if you are responsible for one or more child or young person.

If you make a new claim for Income Support it does not include money for children. You will need to claim Child Tax Credit from HM Revenue & Customs. To find out more about Child Tax Credit visit www.direct.gov.uk/taxcredits or call HM Revenue & Customs Helpline on 0345 300 3900. If you need help or a form in Welsh, phone 0300 200 1900.

If you are claiming as a lone parent

Additional help is available to lone parents who volunteer to join the Work Programme. If you agree to take part you will have your own personal adviser who will help and advise you on things like incentives, benefits and available childcare. Lone parents can join the programme at any time.

If you are claiming for a partner

At a future date your partner may be required to take part in a work focused interview with a personal adviser.

If they are required to take part in a work focused interview, your partner will be contacted once you have been claiming benefit for 26 weeks or more.

The work focused interview with a personal adviser

A personal adviser will discuss a range of topics with your partner which may include

- your partner's current or future job prospects
- training to help bring your partner's work skills up to date
- help and advice if your partner is considering moving into work, increasing the number of hours that they already work or changing jobs.

Any of the options your partner discusses with their personal adviser, at the work focused interview, are voluntary.

Your benefit may be reduced if, without good cause, your partner does not take part in their work focused interview.

If your partner takes part in a work focused interview at a later date, your benefit will be fully reinstated from that date.

Part 15: How we pay you

We normally pay your money into an account.

Many banks and building societies will let you collect your money at the post office.

We will tell you when we will make the first payment and how much it will be for.

We will tell you if the amount we pay into the account is going to change.

Finding out how much we have paid into the account

You can check your payments on account statements. The statements may show your National Insurance (NI) number next to any payments we have made. If you think a payment is wrong, get in touch with the office that pays you straight away.

If we pay you too much money

If we pay you too much money we have the right to take back any money we pay that you are not entitled to. This may be because of the way the payment system works.

For example, you may give us some information which means you are entitled to less money. Sometimes we may not be able to change the amount we have already paid you. This means we will have paid you money that you are not entitled to.

We will contact you before we take back any money.

What to do now

 - agree that we will pay you into an account, and
